GLOBAL CLOUD SOLUTIONS PROVIDER

Achieves 99.9% Cloud App Resilience SLA with App-centric BCDR

A global cloud solutions provider significantly increased app resiliency SLAs compared to what they were able to achieve in the data center with a combination of tools like Zerto, Veeam, storage snapshots, and site recovery automation solutions.

BACKGROUND

Founded in 1999, this global cloud solutions provider has been obsessed with offering the highest level of managed cloud services. Through their proprietary cloud platform and their soon-to-be-launched marketplace, customers and partners get effortless app provisioning, higher productivity, and ROI.

CHALLENGE

After migrating to cloud, they wanted to reduce complexity and achieve better resilience for greater SLA guarantees. They wanted to replace four separate complex systems - local backup and restore, host replication for DR, storage snapshots management for deployment rollback, and site recovery systems with a simple system leveraging all cloud-native infrastructure and data management services.

SOLUTION

Commvault Cloud Rewind replaced the company's data center tooling with an innovative application resilience solution that continuously reverse engineers cloud app environments for BCDR and achieves much better RPO/RTO. With Cloud Rewind dependency aware recovery system, they have substantially reduced complexity, increased app SLAs, and achieved tremendous cost savings, all leveraging cloud-native IaaS and data resilience services.

RESULTS

Commvault Cloud Rewind has a) drastically reduced the company's application downtime risks and increased SLAs, b) avoided third party data management lock-in, c) substantially reduced complexity by eliminating four different systems, and d) decreased the cost of backup, recovery, and disaster recovery with an integrated service.

> Commvault Cloud Rewind eliminated four different products with a simple integrated Cloud Application Resilience service. It's truly a game-changer. We can now easily satisfy data sovereignty, our strict customer RPO, and RTO requirements.
